

Who am I?

It's hard for me to tell you who I am on a sheet of paper because there isn't one adjective or title that can completely describe who I am.

My friends say that I'm a genuine, confident but yet a humble person. Those who know me know I'm a music lover, any reel, any jig, I'll be at the gig! It's the funny side of me that my friends enjoy the most. (I surely ain't the vibe dimmer). Friends are like books on a bookshelf, they are all the same but each one provides us with different knowledge and advice.

On first impressions I come across as pleasant and easy going. But don't mistake me for a pushover, I can be razor sharp in tricky situations (or so I'm told). According to my dad I'm the ivy on the tree, I'm growing taller and taller each time he sees me.

And me? I am ambitious and enthusiastic and have big dreams to be someone of great significance someday. I'd like to say that these points sum me up, but I guess I'm too unique to explain myself!
